Personal Bio

The son of a musician and photographer, I've always had a natural pull in the direction of the arts. Music being my first passion, in 2001 I started my first website and independent record label, www.deadspacevolume.com. Its conception launched me into a new kind of art: graphic design. Creating a companion for my music in the form of posters, album art, and web graphics, I was able to further express my creativity in the visual medium. I have since utilized these talents to create websites, advertisement campaigns (both print and online), motion graphics, logos, and video edits for a variety of clients.
